

Introduction

According to the SEA-SEZP Agreement, each school must produce and publicly post Educator Working Conditions (EWC) as part of the annual School Operational Plan. Since all schools are given flexibility to differentiate their school programs—including school schedule, hours, duties, and professional development—the EWC document enables each school to inform current and prospective teachers of their employment expectations for the following school year.

SEZP expects that principals and TLTs will solicit input from faculty, review data, and work together to define teacher working conditions that create an academic environment and school culture aligned with their school’s priorities.

Directions for Completing Educator Working Conditions

SEA and SEZP have collaborated to produce default language and an Educator Working Conditions template (following page) based on the fifteen required elements outlined in Article 22 of the SEA-SEZP contract. All EWC documents must meet the specifications outlined in Article 22 and reference the fifteen required elements. Schools may customize the default language in the template as appropriate for their community.

To develop the EWC document, principals, TLTs, and school faculty should first review their school’s current EWC document. Principals and TLTs should solicit feedback from staff on what’s working, what’s not, and invite suggestions for improvement with the current year’s working conditions. Current and prior year EWC documents can be accessed online at <http://www.springfieldempowerment.org/school-plans.html>.

Each building’s EWC must be approved by the principal and a majority of the TLT. All educators in the school must have an opportunity to review and provide meaningful feedback on the EWC before they are submitted to the SEZP leadership.

If SEZP provides feedback on your submitted EWC document that requires a change, the principal and majority of TLT must re-vote on the changes and ensure that faculty are informed on the changes. Your final EWC document will be a public document posted on the SEZP website as part of your School Operational Plan .
